REPORTS FROM THE MINES.

Steady Development and Active Progress is General on the Lake.

The Flint Lake Gold Mining Company have let a contract to Stevens & McKinnon, to build a mill.
Mr. Breidenbach, M.E., prepared the plans and designed the structure of both the mill and the machinery arrangement. The machinery, which is a ball mill made by the Krupp Company in Germany, will treat 60 tons per day. It has been figured that the mill can be kept running for several months with ore that can be quarried along the surface without at present doing any genuine mining work until the character of the ore and size of the vein become better known.

MIKADO.

Manager McMillan, of the Mikado mine, is keeping up a steady development attack along the levels and drifts and the results so far are satisfactory.
Referring to the early breaking up of the winter roads and the late opening of navigation, Mr. McMillan said the provisions got so low that there was no joke in it. Suckers were sold at a premium, and meat which was brought from town on a dog train was had before it arrived. Mr. McMillan himself lost several pounds in weight during the siege.

BLACK EAGLE.

Reports from Black Eagle are to the effect that large gold returns are being taken every 24 hours from the plates, and that May will show the largest bullion return since the new company started operating. No word has reached us so far as to the plan of the management regarding the straightening of the old shaft or the opening of new reserves below the ninth level, though these necessary works may be proceeding without the fact being made known. Mr. Frank Peterson, M. E., left this morning to pay a visit to the mine.

GOLDEN STAR.

Vague reports reached the Miner of how this afternoon of a rich strike at the Golden Star, but not much reliance can be placed in the rumor. It is said that an exceptionally valuable vein has been struck having a width of three feet.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING.

audience, confined his talk to personal matters, and criticizing his opponents' previous speeches at other meetings, very much of which the audience failed to grasp the meaning, as they had no idea who certain parties at Savanne and other places were.

Mr. Ferguson again took the stage and after disposing of some of the remarks of the previous speaker, he took several planks of the Whitney platform, dealing with them at length and explaining their superiority over the Ross regime, finishing by citing corrupt practices of the government and reading court decisions and condemnation of methods employed.

Dr. Snellie was greeted with prolonged cheering when he advanced to speak. He said he had intended going into a discussion of the Whitney policy and attacking that of Premier Ross, but was afraid he would be compelled to give a large portion of his time to refuting the garbled tales that Mr. Cameron had heard and repeated.
The doctor then went into some of these at some length, and though they might have been interesting to a Savanne, Ignace or Fort William audience, they were not so in Rat Portage.
He then gave a short exposition of the Whitney policy, referring particularly to more aggressive work in the matter of colonization roads and the opening to settlement of the farming lands adjacent to Rat Portage. He also attacked the vainglorious policy of the government and the extravagance of the administration.

At the conclusion of the meeting the audience sang God Save the King, and three cheers for the candidates were given.

THE IGNACE DESPARADOES

Fred Saint and Mike Mc-Comber Will Each Serve
Thirteen Months.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. Young, P. M., sentenced two bad men from Ignace to 13 months' hard labor for stealing and assault and battery. The prisoners, Fred Saint and Mike Mc-Comber, were brought here Wednesday by Constable Kimmons after being tried on Tuesday at Ignace by Magistrate Young. There were four charges against the prisoners, two for assault and battery laid by A. Demer; one preferred by Chas. Bouchet against the prisoner McComber, of stealing a pair of boots; and one laid against the

AMONG MANITOU MINES

American Capitalists Flocking into the District to invest in Mines.

Mr. Dan Simpson returned on Thursday evening, says the Wabigoon Star, from his visit to Mosher Bay, where he made a thorough examination of three locations on behalf of a group of Buffalo capitalists, who are interesting themselves in that portion of the Manitou district. From his intimate knowledge of the Manitou district, through his connection with the Big Master mine, of which he may be said to be the father and chief promoter, Mr. Simpson is eminently qualified to pass judgment on any mining prospect in this district.

Mr. Simpson has an able colleague in Mr. P. Paulson, another pioneer shareholder of the Big Master, through whose interest in the Mosher Bay property it is that Mr. Simpson again returns to further exploit the Manitou district, the promoter of what will probably be another bullion producer.

Before leaving for Buffalo Mr. Simpson called at the Star office and summed up the result of his visit by saying he had never seen better prospects in all his life. From results of assays and samples seen this statement is easily corroborated. The preliminary work done so far is the sinking of a prospecting shaft and 45 feet of tun-neling to intercept the vein.

Mr. Simpson will probably be at the head of two syndicates, who will develop the Mosher Bay property on an extensive scale, as soon as financial matters have been arranged.

Asked as to the prospects of the Big Master Mr. Simpson said it was a sure winner, as this property was in the hands of such high class investors as Hon. C. W. Stone, president, and H. C.
Myers, secretary, besides being managed by a superintendent who has no superior in Canada.

Mr. Simpson left for Buffalo the same evening to complete arrangements for organizing the company.

Among those who left on Monday morning's steamboat for Gold Rock was Mr. E. H. Page, of Minneapolis.
Mr. Page is interested, with Mr. B. H.
Evans, of St. Paul, in some mining locations in the Manitou, adjoining the Big Master, in fact on the same vein.
No work has been done on this property, beyond a shot or two put in here and there, the rock from which however, showed encouraging assays.

The mother of the girl sent an accurate description of her, but the police located her by the fact that she was the prettiest girl on the boat and incidentally that she was accompanied by an apparently love-stricken and youthful blonde.

At police headquarters Miss Ainsworth was shown courtesies seldom heard of. She was allowed to write on the chief's typewriter; hold hands with her boy friend; above all, instructions were given that the best looking man on the headquarters detail should act as guard. As a result, every man present imagined that he was detailed to look after her personal comfort.

Miss Ainsworth was put on the United Empire line this afternoon and started back for Port Arthur, where her mother will meet her at the end of the dock.

Archbishop Corrigan died worth $250,000. (But to show that great men are not always jealous of each other, as historians would have us believe, the Archbishop's will is worth attention. He left nothing to his relatives, but gave all his property back to the different Societies of his church where the money originally came from. The will reads: I give, devise and bequeath all my estate, both real and personal of whatsoever kind, name, and where-soever situated, with reversion, remainder or otherwise, unto Rt. Rev.
Charles McNeill, bishop of the City of Brooklyn; Rt. Rev. Winard Wigger, bishop of the City of Newark, N. J., and Rt. Rev. Henry Gabriel, bishop of Ogdensburg, to have and to hold as joint tenants and not as tenants in common.)

CONSERVATIVE MEETING.

An enthusiastic audience assembled in the opera house last night to hear Dr. Smellie, the Conservative nominee for this constituency, make his first address to the voters at this end of the district. Mr. Belyea being appointed chairman, extended an invitation to Mr. Cameron and Mr. McKenzie to address the meeting. Mr. Cameron mounted the platform and complained of the unfairness of having to speak first, and Mr. McKenzie next appearing said he also thought it unfair and refused to, at the same time taking his seat on the stage.

Mr. A. Moore, who was the first speaker, in a few words outlined the policy of Mr. Whitney, and scored the government on its many shortcomings and one-sided legislation. Mr. Ferguson followed and spoke forcibly not only on the provincial aspect of the contest, but also from its intricate local standpoint.

prisoner Salut, by John Williams, who swore that the unholy saint thrust a revolver in his face and threatened to blow his head off.

The convicted men had been bad for a long time around Ignace, and the people there had become so afraid of them that they were too scared of the consequences to lay information that would have put them behind the bars long ago. It is to be hoped that the Lake of the Woods district jail regulations will make them better and wiser men.

PING PONG.

Next week the skating rink will echo with the mellifluous ping pong, ping pong, of the "infernal little white mice" as some intrepid player named the celluloid spheres used in that exciting game.

There will be six tables for the players, and war to the bitter end may be looked for.

The entries will be—Ladies' Singles, Entry.....25c Men's Single.....50c
Men's Doubles.....50c
Mixed Doubles.....50c

As the proceeds are for the benefit of the town library, everybody should go into the tournament, whether they play well or badly. There will be several classes, even a "halcyon" class, for people who have never played. If it results in nothing else, there will be a carnival of fun for all, and prizes for the winners.

Mr. Page intends to stay with the locations for a month or so in order to do some stripping and other preliminary development to further test the property with a view to future operations. From its contiguity to the Big Master, it is not improbable that like the Big Master, it will establish a reputation which will rebound to the credit of that resourceful portion of the district.

Mr. W. P. Davidson, of St. Paul, arrived at Wabigoon on Wednesday morning last from Winnipeg. Mr.
Davidson is the principal person interested in the Royal Sovereign and left with H. D. Astion, the manager of the property, the same morning for the mine, where he will examine the work so far accomplished and arrange for future operations. Mr. Davidson was accompanied by his brother, who is enjoying a brief holiday.

PORT ARTHUR ELOPEMENT.

Duluth Herald:—With her exquisite girlishness and disarming brunette beauty Margaret Ainsworth reigns supreme at police headquarters today.
She has created a palpitating sensation in police circles and fortunately for the happy homes of several policemen she will be on her way back to Canada this evening.

Miss Ainsworth is 16 years of age; she is the daughter of a prominent widow of Port Arthur and is a scientist. Her particular sty is that her nette beauty is what is known as the distressingly dazzling.

Recently on the streets of Port Arthur, she met a blonde young man of 20. The moment he saw her it was a up with J. Frank Hamilton. It was love at first sight with the young lady or the unfortunate man? It is not fortunate or unfortunate enough to be an elopement.

While the choir were singing in Port Arthur yesterday morning Miss Ainsworth dashed off a few notes to some of her girl friends and then boarded the steamer United Empire for Duluth, Hamilton was on the boat.

The mother of Miss Ainsworth was shown one of her daughter's delightfully girlish notes and immediately wired the local police to stop the elopement.

OUR ROYAL VISITORS.

Though the bulk of the people of Rat Portage did not know it—though perhaps not half a dozen out of the hundreds gathered around the depot were aware of the fact—we nevertheless had some notable visitors here for a few minutes on Saturday night. There was a private compartment coach on the rear end of the train which was so long, that this car did not get under the bridge when the train stopped. In that coach were some men who looked as if they had been in the Chinese laundry business, but they hadn't. They were His Royal Highness Prince Yi Chai Kuli, of Corea, and his suite, and they were on their way to England to attend the coronation. In the same coach were Mr. and Mrs. Goffe, whose expenses to the coronation are being paid by the Corean government. Mr. Goffe is the British consul at Corea.

On the same train with the prince was another gentleman whose name is known all over the civilized world—Baron Munchausen. He sat alone, and he had travelled over the road between Winnipeg and Port Arthur a few days before, and the baron must have been feeling like Napoleon just after the battle of Waterloo—i.e., 21 cents.

Just as we go to press we learned that the Baron Munchausen, who went through here Saturday night is not the same gentleman whose adventures we read of in our youth, but is an imaginative noble Tontou returning to Berlin after a trip to the Orient—i.e., 21 cents.

WHAT WESTERNERS SUFFER.

If it had not for grown-up monotonous and tiresome, the spectacle of a young man coming to Rat Portage to make a living, and starting in before he got his grip unpacked, to criticize the municipal institutions, or anything else in town which does not please his fancy, would be funny. But the thing has ceased to be funny, because many other young men have said the same thing in the past, and out of freshness, and we are getting tired of it. One young man will come with the blush of the farm on his cheek, and the mire of the piggery on his boots, and of course he considers himself an expert on mining matters. At the first once turns in to demonstrate to us what a lot of asses we are, another will say: "Rat Portage is a ridiculous name. Now that I think we'll change it—I'll give you a suitable name myself." This young man is perhaps a high school graduate, but usually turns out that he has been a union clerk at a penitentiary in a town called Murphy's Cannery, or at Phersonburg, and he gets as much sugar in Rat Portage in a day as he does down east in a week.

Another young man will say in what he considers an irresistibly humorous manner that our town spunkier looks like a broken-down threshing outfit. We don't know whether or

ON LOW ESIDE.
Paine's Celery Compound
Is the Great Restorer of Health for the Ruler and His Humblest Subject.

Sickness, disease and suffering respect neither ruler or subject. The noted and highborn have their trials and physical sufferings like those in humble stations. Social standing and wealth cannot bar the progress of disease when the common rules of health are violated.

Impure blood and weak nerves are responsible for many of the common diseases of life. The experienced physician will tell you men and women with pure, clear, coursing blood and well braced nerves, can never become victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver troubles, debility, headaches or sleeplessness.

It follows therefore, that sufferers from any of the ailments referred to, should at once take measures to cleanse the blood and feed the weak nervous system with proper nourishment.

For the happy accomplishment of this important work, Paine's Celery Compound is the only safe agent; the one great specific; the security against deadly disease and death. During these spring days, Paine's Celery Compound guarantees a perfect regularity of the bowels, healthy appetite, sound sleep, good digestion, pure blood, active nerves and clear brain, all of which mean full and robust health.

Mr. B. Hutchins, one of the most prominent Real Estate men in Montreal, says:—"About five years ago I wrote you a letter acknowledging the wonderful effect your Paine's Celery Compound had upon me after I had given it a fair trial; that it cured me entirely of neuritis in the head from which I suffered most fearfully for fifty years, and also that it cured me of rheumatism in my limbs. In fact it removed every pain in my body and made me feel 25 years younger. I have not had a return of my old complaint, and therefore have to mention all the statements I ever made respecting your Compound."

SUCCESS ASSURED WHEN THE DIAMOND DYES ARE USED.

When home-dyeing depends altogether upon the quality of the dyes, select for the work of coloring. Diamond Dyes are acknowledged to be the best in the world, as far as brilliancy and color are concerned. They always do perfect work, and never disappoint the most exacting user. Diamond Dyes are sold at 10 cents per package, the same price that many people pay for imitation and adulterated dyes. The most progressive druggists and dealers will sell no other dyes but the Diamond, because the inferior dye cause so much grumbling and loss of sale. Do not accept imitation, or substitutes from any dealer no matter how strongly he may recommend them. The poor dyes are sold simply because they pay large profits. See that the name "Diamond" is on each package you buy.

hibition as a bait in one hand—and in snatching it back with the other by means of the Referendum—the province has been insulted and stultified by the government, and the latter should by this reason be sternly dealt with by the electorate.

Such important questions as the best means of developing New Ontario and how the Ontario Government can best assist us in so doing; the ample encouragement of our Agricultural, Mining and Fishing industries; the preservation from waste and destruction of such timber limits as are still left to us, as well as the taking of adequate measures to replace our now rapidly disappearing forests, will no doubt receive the earnest care and attention of the Conservative party; and any such measures, no matter from what party proceeding will receive my hearty support should you elect me as your representative.

Much mismanagement and waste has occurred in the building of colonization roads. The necessity for such roads will readily be conceded by all parties, but the present methods are loose and bad and we are not securing value for our money. Radical changes are needed in this connection.

I hereby pledge myself, with all the energy I possess, to labor for the recognition of the rights of the laboring man by a properly enforced Alien Labor Act, which will not be a farce, but which, adapted to local circumstances, would be a benefit to the laboring man.

I would also strongly advocate the protection of the rights and interests of the people and the province from attack by greedy and rapacious corporations.

I shall endeavor as far as possible to meet and put myself in touch with the electorate of this large district before the election day and to state clearly my views on the leading questions of the day—as far as the province of Ontario is concerned.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your very obedient servant,
T. S. T. SMELLIE

TO THE ELECTORS.

To the Free and Independent Electors of the Constituency of Fort William and Lake of the Woods.

Gentlemen: At the request of a large number of electors, representing various shades of political opinion, I have consented to become a candidate for election as the representative of this constituency in the Legislative Assembly of the province of Ontario.

During my residence of 19 years in the riding my personal interests have become bound up in its welfare and progress. In that time a somewhat extensive experience as a lumberman has enabled me to appreciate to a certain degree its great timber, mineral and agricultural resources. I have unbounded faith in its future.

The rapid advancement that has Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as very superior medicines.

In every town, village and township in Canada just such cures are daily being brought about by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are no experiment, but a kidney trouble that has stood the test—give it a dose, 25c a box, at all druggists, or Edmundson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

HIS VOTES AND INTEREST

By Gerald Kieran

Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure Company

"Duke," remarked Angela Danby, with the frank courage of an heiress to millions, "I am sensible of the honor conveyed in your offer, but before I answer I must ask certain questions."

The duke bowed.
"You know that papa, like most people who have made money suddenly, is an ultra Tory."

"We are Tories ourselves," observed the duke.

"Oh, yes, but faintness in Toryism, according to papa," she retorted, with a deprecatory gesture. "You must do something to convince him that you are as intensely anti-Radical as he is himself. How many votes are you entitled to east at the coming general election?"

The duke produced a betting book and hastily made a calculation.

"Well," he said, "there is the vote in Daleshire, and in Shropshire, and in Devon on the Rivers Court estate, and in the boroughs of Moreton, Dalehampton and Middleton, and in the London constituencies."

Angela began to look appalled.

"How many in all in England?" she interrupted.

"Thirteen. And then in Scotland—one in Inverness. The Lowland estates give me one in Lanark, Dumfries, the Lothians—he caught her look of appeal and finished—"seven in all.
Then in Ireland—but all these details must tire you. Summing them all up, I have thirty-six votes—no; thirty-seven.
I forgot that I have one vote in the island of Orkney."

Miss Danby sank back in her chair with a little sigh. The duke stared in a puzzled manner alternately at her and at his betting book.

Finally she broke the silence.

"Only last night papa was saying that if at the next election any Tory gentleman failed to vote to his utmost capacity he would consider him as a traitor to the cause. Duke, you ask what you can do to win me. Vote for the cause in every one of the constituencies where you possess suffrage."

The poor duke stood aghast.

"But, Miss Danby," he protested, "have you considered? I have thirty-seven constituencies. Many of the elections happen in these places on the same day. They are often hundreds of miles apart. It is impossible."

Miss Danby rose from her chair as she said these words. "I have answered you."

The duke had also risen. He looked her full in the eyes. "Angela," he said, with the awkward dignity which is characteristic of the St. Giles family, "I do not vote legally from exactly one of those constituencies you said never are again."

And he took his hat and his departure.

"It is madness, your grace," exproriated Mr. Eastwell of Eastwell & Teasdale.

speed. With the way clear the wheels seemed scarcely to touch the rails.

One-ten, and Liverpool! But a grievous disappointment met the duke. The packet boat for Dublin was delayed an hour. He stormed and bribed, but to no purpose, and was about to betake himself to his hotel in despair when a telegram was handed him. It was from Dublin and was signed "Angela."

Papa's steam launch Champion in Liverpool at your disposal.

Twenty minutes later saw the duke speeding down the Mersey on the Champion, fastest of its kind.

The day was drawing to a close in Rallyconell, and with it the election.
It was a tiny hamlet, so it was small wonder that there was more interest taken in the beautiful lady who had so mysteriously appeared on the scene in a fine carriage than in the election. As the minutes passed the girl, for she was hardly more than a girl, grew visibly impatient as she looked and listened for some one who did not come.
Finally she jumped lightly from the carriage and asked the crowd if they would be willing to listen to a speech in honor of the Tory candidate.

They were in a mood for diversion and not loath to humor so pretty a lady, so they drew around her. Her voice even attracted the gentlemen in charge of the ballot boxes. They did not notice that the hour for closing the polls had passed by.

Five minutes past the hour—ten. The girl was desperate. Could she hold them another moment. All the pretty color had faded from her cheeks, but she talked on.

Suddenly there was the thud of hoofs, a whirl of dust, and another carriage dashed up. Out jumped a very travel-worn young man, who hurried into a booth where his factor had all credentials ready and deposited his thirty-seventh and last vote. If the election judges realized that it was past the hour for voting, they were too much taken by surprise to say anything.

And then the duke turned to the girl.
She was still trembling, but she made a brave attempt to smile as she said:

"Let me congratulate you on the accomplishment of the impossible."

The duke took her hand quite boldly.
"Thanks to you, Angela."

And she did not deny him.

According to Cocker.
Edward Cocker, who lived in the reign of Charles II., is chiefly known to the present generation by the saying in common use. "According to Cocker" means in accordance with arithmetical rules.

I saw the other day amid the treasures of a private collector a copy of the first edition of Cocker's immortal work on arithmetic, published by T. Passenger at the Three Bibles on London bridge. Only two, or at least three, perfect copies are known to the book collector. One is in the British museum. This particular copy, its brown morocco pitifully faded, bears on its title page the inscription, "Cocker's Arithmetic, Perused and Published by John Hawking by the Author's Correct Copy." It contains what purports to be a portrait of "ingenious Cocker." Experts, however, shake their heads over the authenticity of this work of art. There are many engraved portraits of the epoch, but there was only one Cocker. The British museum copy has no portrait, and there is too much rea-

TWO POEMS.

I.—The Sea by the Wood.

I dwell in a sea that is wild and deep,
And afar off I hear the wind.
I can see the trees that gather and sleep
In the wood upon the hill.

The deeps are green as an emerald's face, The caves are crystal calm.
But I wish the sea were a little trace Of moisture in God's palm.

The waves are weary of hiding pearls, Are weary of smothering gold.
They would all be air that sweeps and swirls.
In the branches manifold.

They are weary of laving the seaman's eyes.
With their passion-prayer unsaid.
They are weary of robs and the sudden sighs
And movements of the dead.

All the sea is haunted with human lips Asben and sere and grey.
You can hear the souls of the sunken ships Stir and shiver and sway.

In the woody solitude:
If mine were the will of God, the mists Should melt away in the rustling wood:
Like a mist that follows the rain.

But I dwell in the sea that is wild and deep.
And afar in the shadow still
I can see the trees that gather and sleep
In the wood upon the hill.

II.—The Wood by the Sea.

I dwell in the wood that is dark and kind, Afar, far off I hear the wind.
Afar, far off I hear the wind.
And the marching of the rain.

The shade is dark as the palmer's hood,
The air with the palm is bland; But I wish the trees that breathe to the wood.

We are ashes in God's hand.
The plumes are weary of holding nests, Are weary of nesting shade.
Wearily smoulder the resin oaks—In the pungent gloom of the glade.

Weary are all the birds of sleep.
The nests are weary of wings.
The whole wood yearns to the swaying deep.
The mother of restless things.

The wood is very old and still,
So still when the dead cones fall, Near in the vale or away on the hill, You can hear them one and all.

And the falling wearies me:
If mine were the will of God, why then,
The wood would trumpet to the sunning sea, Like a marching army of men.

But I dwell in the wood that is dark and kind.
Afar, far off I hear the wind.
Afar, far off I hear the wind.
And the marching of the rain.

dian Magazine.

Here is a Scottish newspaper. The Daily Journal of Aberdeen, with a really eloquent defence of Canada against Kipling's implied suggestion that snow plays a part in our daily life.

"The title of Our Lady of the Snows," says the Scottish writer, "destroyed on Canada in a happied sort of manner by Rudyard Kipling." Is not at all a happy one, as it applies to a season only. I have seen the garages jammed in luxurious bunches of trees, in a Quebec garden, and the beds of azaleas grow crimson in the warm sunshine. I have lingered in the golden whistled in the evening and listened to the myriad sounds of the crickets and grasshoppers. I have walked amid the cedar trees in an Ontario swamp when the sunset glow had faded, and watched the moths starting to and to like shooting stars, and I

The guests are gone the smile slips from the face of the hostess and she gives up to the pain which racks her body. Many a woman entertains and wears a smile while her back aches and her nerves quiver with pain. Surely any medicine which offers relief to women would be worth a trial under such conditions. But when the woman's medicine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is offered with the proof of efficacy in thousands of well attested cures, what excuse can then be offered for suffering longer?

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures enfeebling linings, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

It is with the greatest pleasure I write seven constituencies. Many of the elections happen in these places on the same day. They are often hundreds of miles apart. It is impossible!" Miss Danby rose from her chair as she said truly, "I have answered you."

The duke had also risen. He looked her full in the eyes. "Angela," he said, with the awkward dignity which is a characteristic of the St. Giles family, "if I do not vote legally from every one of those constituencies you shall never see me again."
And he took his hat and his departure.

"It is madness, your grace," expostulated Mr. Lastwill of Lastwill & Testament.
"I suppose I can afford to be mad," the duke replied coolly.
"Oh, certainly, your grace. The estates are in a most flourishing condition, and, of course, the prospect of your winning the Danby millions!"
"I don't care twopence for the Danby millions. It is the girl I want." And then, as if ashamed of his show of feeling, he went on hurriedly, "And now tell me what has been done?"
"Well, your grace, I have had the schedules made out, and it is possible—barely possible—for you to cover the ground in time. But it will cost—special trains and all that—it will cost hundreds of pounds."
"I will risk thousands, but," half to himself, "I must win the girl. Be good enough to show me an itinerary for my journey."

"A touch of a bell brought the head clerk with a series of especially printed lists. They were the way bills, expenses, list of stopping places, relays of horses and similar tables. All the preparations for the carrying out of the duke's daring experiment had been made."

That evening found the duke speeding northward, and next morning he recorded the first vote of his long series. Then a special whirled him into the west county, where he voted before dinner time at no less than three boroughs. At every stopping point stood a barouche and four waiting to hear him at a gallop to the voting booths. And that was only the first of many days.

Presently the word spread far and wide of the wanderings of the "mad Duke of Baleshire." Many jeered, but old Mr. Danby chuckled delightedly. "That's a man after my own heart. I have done him an injustice, but I will make amends for it by and by. Perhaps Angela has told him something."

The two weeks of election were drawing to a close, and the crisis of the duke's experiment was at hand. He had voted in thirty-five constituencies. Only two remained, left these elections occurred on the same day, and one was in the north of Scotland and the other in the south of Ireland.

The duke arrived at his seat of Balmengulch castle on the eve of election. Next morning the polls were scarcely opened when his carriage came dashing up. The tenants hardly knew him, so much had the strain of the last two weeks told upon him.

Then the special train whirled him away on the wild race through Scotland and England to distant Liverpool. Never did a special make greater use of a private collector a copy of the first edition of Cocker's immortal work on arithmetic, published by T. Passenger at the Three Bibles on Ludgate Bridge. Only two, or at least three, perfect copies are known to the book collector. One is in the British Museum. This particular copy, its brown morocco pitifully faded, bears on its title page the inscription, "Cocker's Arithmetic, Perused and Published by John Hawking by the Author's Correct Copy." It contains what purports to be a portrait of "Ingenious Cocker."

Experts, however, shake their heads over the authenticity of this work of art. There are many engraved portraits of the epoch, but there was only one Cocker. The British museum copy has no portrait, and there is too much reason to fear that this embellishment was added by some ingenious owner of an earlier century. Cocker died in 1675. This rare relic of the past bears date 1678—Liverpool Post.

His Hesitation.
During one of his tours through the south Sam Jones, the revivalist, saw a colored man who had been to him for spiritual advice sitting in a disconsolate attitude in his melon patch. Accosting him, the minister said:

"What is the matter today, Isaac?"
"I 'ze studyin' 'bout somethin, Mr. Jones," was the answer. "I want to be converted and tell the good Lord dat I 'ze sorry fer my sins."

"Why don't you do so, then?"
"But ef I do that, the Lord, he say, 'What yo' come here fer sayin' dat ter me when you ain't forgib Sam fer stealin' dat watermelon?'"

"Why don't you forgive Sam?" said Mr. Jones.
"Sam ain't repented, an' he's comin' fer mo' tonight if I don't watch out. I forgib him the one he done eat up," said Isaac, "but I can't forgib him what he's gwine ter take, no I'm jest studyin'."

Chinese Surgery.
Like most things in China, the practice of surgery differs considerably from that in vogue in less enlightened western countries. Bone setting in the Celestial empire is a complicated affair and doubtless much more efficacious than European methods. In setting a fractured limb the surgeon does not attempt to bring the bones together, but merely wraps the limb in red clay, inserting some strips of bamboo into the clay. These strips are swathed in bandages, and in the outer bandage the head of a live chicken is placed. Here comes in the superior science of the Celestial. After the bandage has been secured the fowl is beheaded, and its blood is allowed to penetrate the fracture, for it nourishes the fractured limb and is "cheap good medicine."

Buddhist Ceremonies.
Some Buddhist ceremonies present a striking analogy to certain Christian rites. Dr. McDermott says: "The very titles of their intercessions, such as 'goddess of mercy,' 'holy mother,' 'queen of heaven,' with an image of the virgin having a child in her arms holding a crescent, are all such striking coincidences that the Catholic missionaries were greatly puzzled at the resemblances between Chinese worship and their own when they came over to convert the natives to Christianity." London Standard.

the snow plays a part in our daily life.
"The title of 'Our Lady of the Snows,'" says the Scottish writer, "bestowed on Canada in a haphazard sort of manner by Ruydard Kipling, is not at all a happy one. It applies to a season only. I have seen the grapes hanging in luxuriant bunches to the vines in a Quebec garden, and the fields of amaranth grow crimson in the warm sunshine. I have lingered in the golden wheatfields in the evening and listened to the myriad sounds of the cricket and grasshopper. I have walked amid the cedar trees in an Ontario swamp when the summer glow shaded faded, and watched the daffodils darting to and fro like shooting stars, and I have watched the tiny hummingbird with plumage that rivalled the brilliantly painted butterflies, contesting with the bee for the honey that lay within the sweet-smelling flowers. Scenes like these are not associated with a land of never-ending winter. Consequently there can be no greater mistake than to imagine, as too many people do, that Canada is a semi-Arctic country out of which little good can come. And yet, what do we find? According to the returns of the Board of Trade fully 65,000 to 75,000 Britishers went to live in the United States during the past year, while only 12,000 or 13,000 went to Canada. There is no reason to doubt that if the resources and natural wealth of the Dominion of Canada were more generally known in this country, we would soon hear the last of the term 'Saguenay' as applied to Canadian products and United States producers would no longer receive credit for Canadian goods. In many cases superior to their own. Those who guide the destinies of the Dominion think that the Stars and Stripes have overshadowed the Maple Leaf, long enough. Every true Briton will be of the same opinion."

Dr. Crozier One of the Elect.
Canadians generally will be interested in learning that Dr. J. Beattie Crozier, author of the famous work, "History of Intellectual Development," has been selected as one of the 300 representatives of the empire in the splendid ten-volume volume of portraits and biographies which the Grosvenor Press are bringing out. The work consists of representative men of every class outside of the military and civil services, who will have a volume to themselves. Dr. Crozier will be one of the representatives of the department of philosophy. Also, of course, he will stand as one of the representatives of Canada, a distinction he has well earned, and on which his countrymen will warmly rejoice.

The Evangelism of Dogs.
I have heard the watchdog's hoarse bark, bay deepened welcome to me as I headed for the pear tree after dark. I believe the fellow that owned the pear tree chose to think that the dog was giving him warning of my approach, but I know better. I had never given that particular dog any reason to dislike me, and the fact that his noisy welcome did bring the owner of the tree into his orchard with a gun was not the dog's fault. It was merely due to the circumstance that the dog in his canine ignorance welcomed me too vigorously.

NATURE'S BLESSING.

IS FOUND IN HEALTH, STRENGTH AND FREEDOM FROM PAIN.

This Gift is Meant for All On It the Happiness and Usefulness of Life Depend - Without It Life is an Existence Hard to Endure.

Health is nature's choicest gift to man and should be carefully guarded. Ill health is a sure sign that the blood is either insufficient, watery or impure for most of the diseases that afflict mankind are traceable to this cause. Every organ of the body requires rich, red blood to enable it to properly perform its life-sustaining functions, and at the first intimation that nature gives that all is not well, the blood should be cared for. Purgative medicines will not do this - it is a tonic that is needed, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been proved, the world over, to surpass all other medicines in their tonic, strengthening and health-renewing qualities. From one end of the land to the other will be found grateful people who cheerfully acknowledge that they owe their good health to this great medicine. Among these is Mr. Eliezer Robidoux, a prominent young man living at St. Jerome, Que. He says: "For some years I was a great sufferer from dyspepsia. My appetite became irregular and everything I ate felt like a weight on my stomach. I tried several remedies and was under the care of doctors but to no avail and I grew worse as time went on. I became very weak, grew thin, suffered much from pains in the stomach, and was frequently seized with dizziness. One day a friend told me of a case of a young girl who had suffered greatly from this trouble, but who, through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had fully regained her health and strength and strongly advised me to try these pills. I was so eager to find a cure that I acted on his advice and procured a supply. From the very first my condition improved and after using the pills for a couple of months I was fully restored to health, after having been a constant sufferer for four years. It is now over a year since I have used the pills and in that time I have enjoyed the best of health. This I owe to the greatest of all medicines, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I shall always have a good word to say on their behalf."

Through their action on the blood and nerves, these pills cure such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, dizziness, indigestion, kidney trouble, partial paralysis, etc. Be sure that you get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on every box. If your dealer does not keep them they will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.40 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Plans have been prepared for additional T. R. shops at Stratford.
